1 Plaintiff Roei Azar, individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated, by 2 Plaintiff's undersigned attorneys, for Plaintiff's complaint against Defendants, alleges the 3 following based upon personal knowledge as to Plaintiff and Plaintiff's own acts, and upon
4 information and belief as to all other matters based on the investigation conducted by and through
5 Plaintiff's attorneys, which included, among other things, a review of Securities and Exchange
6 Commission ("SEC") filings by Yelp, Inc. ("Yelp" or the "Company"), as well as media and 7 analyst reports about the Company and conference call transcripts. Plaintiff believes that substantial
8 additional evidentiary support will exist for the allegations set forth herein after a reasonable 9 opportunity for discovery.
10

11 NATURE OF THE ACTION

12 1. This is a securities class action on behalf of all purchasers of common stock of 13 Yelp between February 10, 2017 and May 9, 2017, inclusive (the "Class Period"), alleging 14 violations of §§10(b) and 20(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act").
15

16 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

17 2. The claims asserted herein arise under §§10(b) and 20(a) of the Exchange Act, 15
18 U.S.C. §§78j(b) and 78t(a), and Rule 10b-5, 17 C.F.R. §240.10b-5. Jurisdiction is confirmed by 19 §27 of the Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. §78aa.
20

21 3. This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action pursuant to 28
22 U.S.C. §1331 and Section 27 of the Exchange Act (15 U.S.C. §78aa).

23 4. Venue is proper in this district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391(b) and Section 27 of 24 the Exchange Act (15 U.S.C. §78aa(c)). The acts and transactions giving rise to the violations of 25 law complained of occurred and Yelp's headquarters are located in this District.

26 5. In connection with the acts, transactions, and conduct alleged herein, Defendants 27 directly and indirectly used the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce, including the 28

1 United States mail, interstate telephone communications, and the facilities of a national securities
2 exchange.

3 PARTIES

4 6. Plaintiff Roei Azar purchased Yelp common stock during the Class Period as 5 described in the Certification attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference and suffered 6 damages.

8 7. Defendant Yelp is a California corporation with its principal executive offices 9 located in San Francisco, California. Yelp's stock trades on the New York Stock Exchange under 10 the ticker YELP. The Company's Annual Report filed with the SEC on March 1, 2017 states that 11 79,602,606 shares of Yelp common stock were issued and outstanding as of February 23, 2017.

12 8. Defendant Jeremy Stoppelman ("Stoppelman") is, and was at all relevant times, the 13 Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") of Yelp and a member of its Board of Directors.

14 9. Defendant Lanny Baker ("Baker") is, and was at all relevant times, the Chief 15 Financial Officer ("CFO") of Yelp.

16 10. During the Class Period, Defendants Stoppelman and Baker oversaw the 17 Company's operations and finances. Defendants Stoppelman and Baker were intimately 18 knowledgeable about all aspects of Yelp's financial and business operations and were also 19 intimately involved in deciding which disclosures would be made by Yelp. Defendants 20 Stoppelman and Baker made various public statements for Yelp during the Class Period, and 21 participated in Class Period investor conferences.

22 DEFENDANTS' FALSE AND MISLEADING CLASS PERIOD STATEMENTS

23 11. Yelp is an online review company to seek to provide a platform for businesses and 24 consumers to interact regarding goods and services. Yelp provides business with both free and 25 paid services and derives most of its revenue through the sale of advertising products. As with 26
27
28

1 many online businesses, adoption by mobile users was critical to Yelp’s growth and success.
2 Investors closely tracked Yelp’s ability to generate revenue from repeat customers, particularly 3 with local businesses, which were a primary source of revenue for the Company.

4 12. The Class Period starts on February 10, 2017, the first day of trading after Yelp
5 announced its financial results for the fourth quarter 2016 (“4Q 2016”) and 2016 annual 6 (“FY2016”) results after the close of trading on February 9, 2017.

7 13. The February 9 press release revealed that Yelp 4Q 2016 revenue grew 27% over
8 fourth quarter of 2015 and generated net income of $8.3 million, compared to a net loss of $22.2
9 million in the fourth quarter of 2016. Defendant Stoppleman is quoted in the press release, in 10 relevant part, as follows:
11

12 We had an outstanding year, growing local revenue by 39%[.] I am 13 extremely proud of how Yelp has become deeply integrated into 14 consumers’ daily habits and increasingly essential to local 15 business owners. In 2017, we look forward to increasing 16 engagement on the app, expanding transactions and broadening our 17 sales strategy.

18 14. Yelp also provided financial guidance for the first quarter of 2017 (“1Q 2017”) in 19 the press release, stating:

20 For the first quarter of 2017, net revenue is expected to be in the 21 range of $195 million to $199 million, representing growth of 22 approximately 25% compared to the first quarter of 2016 at the 23 midpoint of the range. Adjusted EBITDA is expected to be in the 24 range of $25 million to $28 million. Stock-based compensation is 25 expected to be in the range of $26 million to $27 million, and 26 depreciation and amortization is expected to be approximately 4.5% 27 to 5% of revenue.

28 15. Yelp also provided financial guidance for fiscal 2017 (“FY2017”) in the press release, stating:

For the full year of 2017, net revenue is expected to be in the range of $880 million to $900 million, representing growth of approximately 25% compared to full year 2016 at the midpoint of the range. Adjusted EBITDA is expected to be in the range of $150

1 million to $165 million. Stock-based compensation is expected to be 2 in the range of $110 million to $112 million, and depreciation and 3 amortization is expected to be approximately 4.5% to 5% of revenue.

4 16. Defendants also conducted a conference call with analysts on February 9, 2017 to 5 discuss Yelp's 4Q2016 and FY2016 financial results.

6 17. On the conference call, Defendant Stoppleman described the FY2016 performance 7 as follows:

8 Our strong 2016 results reflect the successful execution of our 9 priorities for the year. We grew local revenue 39%, compared to 10 2015 by driving strong productivity in our local SMB business. . .

11 ****

12 Executing well on these priorities sets Yelp up for continued growth
13 in 2017, and we're excited about the potential we see in the year
14 ahead. Local advertising dollars continue to shift online at a fast pace.

15 18. Defendant Baker discussed Yelp's expectations for FY2017, saying:

16 Looking to 2017, our current outlook is that total revenue for the 17 year will be in the range of $880 million to $900 million, representing a 25% increase at the midpoint of the range.

18 ****

19 As indicated in our press release, our current outlook for first-20 quarter 2017 revenue is a range of $195 million to $199 million, an 21 increase of 25% year-to-year at the midpoint. Adjusted EBITDA is 22 expected to be $25 million to $28 million for the first quarter, up from $13 million in the first quarter of 2016.

23 19. Defendant Baker elaborated on Yelp's opportunity to grow local advertizing dollars 24 by stressing the size of the market in the following statement:

25 So we were, in a year in which we were increasing our brand spend 26 in 2016, a year in which we're walking away from brand advertising 27 revenue dollars, and showed that kind of leverage. And I think that's 28 inherent, and unchanged in the model. But when we turned, and we looked at the opportunity ahead of Yelp, $700 million of revenue is sizable, but we're still pretty small in terms of the long-term

1 opportunity we believe. We've got 138,000 advertisers in a market
2 that is 20 million local businesses, and I'd point out, 3.4 million
3 claimed businesses on Yelp.

4 20. Defendant Stoppleman described strength in Yelp's ability to generate advertising 5 sales from repeat customers in the following exchange:

6 On the repeat rate, obviously, repeat rate is a mix of folks who have 7 advertised with us in the past, and that's at an all-time high right
8 now. And while, we're really encouraged by our kind of strong,
9 embedded client base, and that's a really kind of healthy number
10 to understand that those folks are coming back, it's double-edged 11 sword, because we also think that making sure that we get enough 12 new clients into the pipeline is really an important initiative for the 13 Company.

14 And so, we're not alarmed in any way, about where we are in the 15 repeat rate side, but you'd love to see -- again, adding the number of 16 local advertising accounts. Even if we were up in the 7,000, 8,000, 17 10,000 range, based on the opportunity that we actually have in this 18 marketplace, with millions of businesses that have claimed their 19 presence on Yelp, we think we're still the very early stages. And 20 we've got to look at both sides of the coin here, making sure that 21 we're driving new business, and taking advantage of kind of the 22 existing client base that has very nice trends behind it.

23 21. Defendant Stoppleman further assured investors that its growth in local advertising 24 was strong in the following exchange:

25 YOUSSEF SQUALI, ANALYST, CANTOR FITZGERALD: I
26 guess, given that the local ad account metric may start losing some 27 of its meaning over time, can you just help us maybe quantify the 28 contribution of the national accounts and the self-serve initiatives for the quarter, either terms of contribution to growth, or contribution in dollars? . . .

JEREMY STOPPELMAN: . . . And from a source of growth in terms of the dollars, the majority of the dollar growth is still very much coming from our sort of wheelhouse engine, that is our local sales team. And we think there is a lot of track ahead of that team, to continue to penetrate the marketplace.

22. The price of Yelp common stock traded at a Class Period high of more than $38 per share on February 10, 2017 on extremely high volume relative to Yelp's average.

1 27. Defendants held a conference call with analysts on May 9, 2017 to discuss Yelp's 2 1Q 2017 financial results.

3 28. Defendant Stoppleman revealed in his prepared remarks that, during most of the 4 first quarter retention rates – i.e. repeat customers – were not high enough to support Yelp's
5 financial guidance for the year. Specifically, Defendants Stoppleman revealed the following:
6

7 While we're encouraged by the normalization of production in the 8 first quarter, we did see a decline in retention that has impacted our 9 outlook. However, revenue retention improved towards the end of 10 the first quarter and through April. Given the disproportionate 11 impact first quarter performance has on our annual results, we've 12 reduced our outlook for the balance of the year.

13 29. Defendant Baker went on to confirm that Yelp's was not performing up to 14 historical expectations with regard to repeat customers from the start of 1Q2017 when he made the 15 following comment:
16

17 Advertising revenue grew 24% year-to-year in the first quarter to 18 $177 million. During the first quarter, we saw a recovery in local 19 sales rep productivity and continued strong growth in the self-serve 20 channel. However, revenue growth across all 3 primary channels -- 21 local, national and self-serve, decelerated from the prior quarter as 22 well as from the prior year. The biggest factors slowing revenue 23 growth were the carryover effect of soft local sales production in the 24 fourth quarter, and lower account retention in early 2017.

25 *****

26 Turning to account and revenue retention. We experienced weaker-27 than-expected revenue retention in our local ad business in the first 28 quarter. And those losses early in the year have an outsized impact on our full year revenue outlook. At the start of the year, overall local revenue churn was at the upper end of the range we normally see and we've identified several factors contributing to those trends. The account growth and revenue growth acceleration we saw at the start of 2016 created an echo of contract terminations in the recent quarter, and an uptick in less well-established local businesses within our customer base brought greater account turnover as these business owners typically have a harder time competing with our more well-established advertisers. We've adjusted our business outlook for 2017 to reflect what we saw in the

1 first quarter and to reflect a cautious approach to the remainder of 2 the year.

3 30. Defendant Baker further described the impact of the lower retention rates on 4 Yelp's FY2017 financial outlook, stating in relevant part:

6 Based on the results of the first quarter, our experience with 7 account retention at the start of the year and the acquisition of 8 Turnstyle at the start of the second quarter, we're updating our 9 business outlook for 2017. We now anticipate full year 2017
10 revenue will be in a range of $850 million to $865 million, with the 11 midpoint of that range representing 20% growth over full year 2016.
12 Based on that revenue outlook, we're also updating our full year 13 adjusted EBITDA to a range of $130 million to $145 million, which 14 equates to growth of 15% over 2016 adjusted EBITDA at the 15 midpoint.

16 17 The primary factor within the change in business outlook is the 18 local revenue challenge we experienced in the first quarter. We 19 believe local sales rep productivity will continue to trend favorably 20 compared to the fourth quarter of last year and we expect to 21 continue to grow the self-serve channel strongly in 2017 and 22 beyond. The revised outlook contemplates some improvement in 23 account retention as we move beyond the first quarter into the rest of 24 the year. However, we are taking a cautious approach with the 25 outlook for 2017. Retention improvements from here forward will 26 be expected to have a bigger impact on 2018 than they will within 27 the current year.

28 31. Yelp's Chief Operating Officer, Joseph R. Nachman (Nachman"), provided further details about the decline in retention rates in 1Q 2017 that impacted Yelp's expected full year performance in the following exchange:

29
30 So we recognize the churn issue about halfway through the 31 quarter and we're able to tie it back actually to a distinct cohort of 32 advertisers that came on Yelp about a year ago as we were making
33 the transition from CPM to CPC. We saw that there were different 34 retention characteristics amongst that cohort, more emerging 35 businesses on Yelp that had trouble competing in the ad system with 36 some of the more established businesses.

37 32. Defendant Baker explained how the decline in retention rates impacted 38 expectations for Yelp's FY2017 financial performance, stating in relevant part:

1 [T]he way the business works is that retention has a big impact over 2 the course of the forward 12-month period. And when retention is 3 weaker than anticipated of the start of the year, those are missing 4 revenues sort of in the plan for the rest of the year. We exited the 5 quarter with a smaller core book of business than we anticipated
6 because the retention had been worse during the first quarter. As Jed
7 said, it got better towards the end of the quarter

8 33. Nachman further described the underlying reason for the decline in retention rates
9 occurred in January and February of 2017 and was the result of Yelp's business practices, stating 10 in relevant part:

11 So specifically, as it relates to the retention issue, it was 12 concentrated, obviously, in a cohort that surfaced around the 13 beginning of last year. When we made the transition from CPM to 14 CPC, there was certainly a learning curve in terms of how people
15 sold the product and there are, in fact, some other pockets of folks
16 that we couldn't approach before, just based on the product that folks
17 went out and kind of got right there initially when the CPC product 18 was released. We recognize that and upstream have put things in 19 place in order to make sure that our sales reps' upstream work were 20 calling on the right clients. And we addressed this kind of acute 21 problem in January and February. We put this recovery team on 22 higher response rates, put a lot of focus on that particular cohort and 23 the numbers have kind of spoken for themselves as we've gotten 24 into March and April. So we're feeling comfortable about where 25 we are there. I guess taking a step back on the retention issue, we've 26 been really focused on retention and revenue -- account retention 27 and revenue retention for the better part of last year.

28 34. Defendant Stoppleman further explained how the decline in retention rates was driven by changes to Yelp's pricing model in the following exchange:

[A]s we moved from [Cost-Per-Thousand-Impressions] to [Cost-Per-Click], it opened up a variety of leads that weren't available prior to that. And so of course, the sales force went after it and that slightly changed our mix of advertisers as far as how many are engaged in this at a different level. And so that then shows up as all of those folks come off of their term a year later, and so that's what we're seeing. The sales force did normalize over time as they got used to the CPC product and the opportunities were more consistent month over month, and so we believe that effect goes away. But there was a transitional thing that happened there.

35. The price of Yelp common stock declined significantly on May 10, 2017, the first trading day after the Company reported its 2Q 2017 results. Yelp's stock price closed at $34.70

1 on May 9, 2017 and fell to as low as $26.93 on May 10, 2017 before closing at $28.33. Volume
 2 exceeded 47 million shares traded on May 10, 2017 compared to just 1.3 million shares traded on 3 May 5, 2017 and 3.2 million traded on May 9, 2017.

 5 DEFENDANT STOPPLEMAN'S SUSPICIOUS
 STOCK SALES SUPPORT SCIENTER

6 36. Despite telling investors on February 9, 2017 that no reason existed to be 7 concerned about Yelp's retention rates, Defendants later admitted that during January and 8 February 2017 the Company was experiencing lower retention rates with a distinct cohort of 9 advertising customers as a result of Yelp's prior change in pricing.

10 37. Defendant Stoppleman took advantage of the artificially inflated price of Yelp
 11 stock resulting from the false statements by selling a significant amount of his personally held 12 shares in the days and weeks following the February 9, 2017 disclosure of Yelp's financial results.

13 38. Defendant Stoppleman made the follows stock sales during the Class Period:

 15

Date	Shares Sold	Price	Total Proceeds
2/16/2017	250,000	$35.0981	$8,774,525
3/3/2017	250,000	$33.6794	$8,419,850
3/15/2017	250,000	$33.7441	$8,436,025

 17
 18
 19 20

21 39. These sales were suspicious in both timing and amount. The three sales generated 22 proceeds of $25,630,400 and constituted approximately 20% of his holdings. Such dramatic 23 selling was inconsistent with Defendant Stoppleman's prior trading practices.

24
 25 NO SAFE HARBOR

26 40. Most of the false and misleading statements related to existing facts or conditions, 27 and the Safe Harbor provisions have no applicability to such statements. To the extent that known 28 trends should have been included in the Company's financial reports prepared in accordance with

1 GAAP, they too are excluded from the protection of the statutory Safe Harbor. 15 U.S.C. §78u-
2 5(b)(2)(A).

3 41. Yelp's "Safe Harbor" warnings accompanying its reportedly forward-looking 4 statements issued during the Class Period were also ineffective to shield those statements from 5 liability. Defendants Stoppleman and Baker are liable for any false or misleading forward-
6 looking statements because, at the time each forward-looking statements was made, the speaker
7 knew the forward-looking statements was false or misleading and the forward-looking statements
8 was authorized and/or approved by an executive officer and/or director of Yelp who knew that the 9 forward-looking statements was false. In addition, the forward-looking statements were 10 contradicted by existing, undisclosed material facts that were required to be disclosed so that the 11 forward-looking statements would not be misleading. Finally, most of the purported "Safe 12 Harbor" warnings were themselves misleading because they warned of "risks" that had already 13 materialized or failed to provide meaningful disclosures of the relevant risks.

16 ADDITIONAL SCIENTER ALLEGATIONS

17 42. As alleged herein, Defendants Stoppleman and Baker acted with scienter in that 18 each knew that the public documents and statements issued or disseminated in the name of the 19 Company were materially false and misleading; knew that such statements or documents would be 20 issued or disseminated to the investing public; and knowingly and substantially participated or 21 acquiesced in the issuance or dissemination of such statements or documents as primary violations 22 of the federal securities laws. As set forth elsewhere herein in detail, Defendants Stoppleman and 23 Baker, by virtue of their receipt of information reflecting the true facts regarding Yelp, their 24 control over, and/or receipt of modification of Yelp's allegedly materially misleading
25 misstatements and/or his associations with the Company which made them privy to confidential
26 proprietary information concerning Yelp, participated in the fraudulent scheme alleged herein.
27
28

APPLICABILITY OF PRESUMPTION OF RELIANCE:

FRAUD-ON-THE-MARKET DOCTRINE

3 43. At all relevant times, the market for Yelp's common stock was an efficient market
4 for the following reasons, among others:

5 (a) Yelp's stock met the requirements for listing, and was listed and actively 6 traded on the NASDAQ, a highly efficient and automated market;

7
8 (b) The Company had more than 79.6 million shares outstanding as of February 9 9, 2017. During the Class Period, on average, 2,742,605 shares of Yelp stock were traded on a 10 daily basis, demonstrating a very active and broad market for Yelp stock and permitting a very 11 strong presumption of an efficient market;

12 (c) as a regulated issuer, Yelp filed periodic public reports with the SEC;

13 (d) Yelp regularly communicated with public investors via established market 14 communication mechanisms, including regular disseminations of press releases on the national 15 circuits of major newswire services, the Internet and other wide-ranging public disclosures, such 16 as communications with the financial press and other similar reporting services;

18 (e) Yelp was followed by many securities analysts who wrote reports that were 19 distributed during the Class Period. Each of these reports was publicly available and entered the 20 public marketplace; and

21 (f) unexpected material news about Yelp was rapidly reflected in and 22 incorporated into the Company's stock price during the Class Period.

24 44. As a result of the foregoing, the market for Yelp common stock promptly digested
25 current information regarding Yelp from publicly available sources and reflected such information 26 in Yelp's stock price. Under these circumstances, all purchasers of Yelp common stock during the 27
28

1 Class Period suffered similar injury through their purchase of Yelp common stock at artificially
2 inflated prices, and a presumption of reliance applies.

3
4 LOSS CAUSATION

5 45. During the Class Period, as detailed herein, Defendants Stoppleman and Baker
6 made false and misleading statements, and omitted material information, concerning Yelp's
7 business fundamentals and financial prospects and engaged in a scheme to deceive the market.

8 46. By artificially inflating and manipulating Yelp's stock price, Defendants 9 Stoppleman and Baker deceived Plaintiff and the Class and caused them losses when the truth was 10 revealed. Defendants Stoppleman's and Baker's prior misrepresentations and fraudulent conduct 11 became apparent to the market on May 9, 2017, causing Yelp's stock price to fall precipitously as 12 the prior artificial inflation came out of the stock price. As a result of their purchases of Yelp 13 securities during the Class Period, Plaintiff and other members of the Class suffered economic 14 loss, i.e., damages, under the federal securities laws.
15

16 CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

17 47. This is a class action on behalf of those who purchased or otherwise acquired Yelp
18 common stock between February 9, 2017 and May 9, 2017, inclusive, excluding Defendants 19 Stoppleman and Baker (the "Class"). Also excluded from the Class are officers and directors of 20 the Company as well as their families and the family of Defendants Stoppleman and Baker. Class 21 members are so numerous that joinder of them is impracticable.
22

23 48. Common questions of law and fact predominate and include whether Defendants
24 Stoppleman and Baker: (a) violated the Exchange Act; (b) omitted and/or misrepresented material
25 facts; (c) knew or recklessly disregarded that their statements were false; (d) artificially inflated
26 the price of Yelp common stock; and (e) the extent of and appropriate measure of damages.
27
28

1 respect to Yelp's operations and performance that would be material to investors in compliance
2 with the integrated disclosure provisions of the SEC, including with respect to the Company's 3 revenue and earnings trends, so that the market price of the Company's securities would be based 4 on truthful, complete and accurate information. SEC Regulations S-X (17 C.F.R. §210.01, et seq.)
5 and S-K (17 C.F.R. §229.10, et seq.).
6

7 54. Defendants Yelp, Stoppleman and Baker had actual knowledge of the 8 misrepresentations and omissions of material facts set forth herein or acted with reckless disregard 9 for the truth in that they failed to ascertain and disclose such facts, even though such facts were 10 either known or readily available to them.

11 55. As a result of the dissemination of the materially false and misleading information
12 and failure to disclose material facts as set forth above, the market price of Yelp common stock 13 was artificially inflated during the Class Period. In ignorance of the fact that the market price of 14 Yelp common stock was artificially inflated, and relying directly or indirectly on the false and 15 misleading statements made knowingly or with deliberate recklessness by Defendants Yelp, 16 Stoppleman and Baker, or upon the integrity of the market in which the shares traded, Plaintiff and 17 other members of the Class purchased Yelp stock during the Class Period at artificially high prices 18 and, when the truth was revealed, were damaged thereby.
19

20 56. Had Plaintiff and the other members of the Class and the marketplace known of the 21 true facts, which were knowingly or recklessly concealed by Defendants Yelp, Stoppleman and 22 Baker, Plaintiff and the other members of the Class would not have purchased or otherwise 23 acquired their Yelp shares during the Class Period, or if they had acquired such shares during the 24 Class Period, they would not have done so at the artificially inflated prices which they paid.
25

26 57. By virtue of the foregoing, Defendants Yelp, Stoppleman and Baker have violated
27 §10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 promulgated thereunder. 17 C.F.R. §240.10-5.

Against the Individual Defendants

4 58. Plaintiff repeats and realleges the above paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

5 59. Defendants Stoppleman and Baker had control over Yelp and made the material 6 false and misleading statements and omissions on behalf of Yelp within the meaning of §20(a) of 7 the Exchange Act as alleged herein. By virtue of their executive positions and stock ownership, as 8 alleged above, Defendants Stoppleman and Baker had the power to influence and control and did,
9 directly or indirectly, influence and control the decision making of the Company, including the 10 content and dissemination of the various statements which Plaintiff contends were false and 11 misleading. Defendants Stoppleman and Baker were provided with or had unlimited access to the 12 Company's internal reports, press releases, public filings, and other statements alleged by Plaintiff 13 to be misleading prior to or shortly after these statements were issued, and had the ability to 14 prevent the issuance of the statements or cause them to be corrected.
15

16 60. In particular, Defendants Stoppleman and Baker had direct involvement in and 17 responsibility over the day-to-day operations of the Company and, therefore, are presumed to have 18 had the power to control or influence the particular transactions giving rise to the securities 19 violations as alleged herein.
20

21 61. By reason of such wrongful conduct, Defendants Stoppleman and Baker are liable 22 pursuant to §20(a) of the Exchange Act. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants
23 Stoppleman's and Baker's wrongful conduct, Plaintiff and the other members of the Class suffered
24 damages in connection with their purchases of the Company's common stock during the Class 25 Period.
